MANY FARMERS MEET AT CHAMBER OF COMMERCE ROOM—DISCUSS PLANS

For Growing Strawberries in Bay St. Louis Section of Hancock County For Next Season—Over One Hundred Acres Pledged.

Proving so successful was the feeble and unorganized efforts of a few strawberry growers in this section recently, who grew the berry and sold to advantage, that it was determined by local business men through their Chamber of Commerce to get together and discuss the business from that angle of thorough organization, from the point of planting to final shipping.

This meeting was called for Monday evening at the Chamber of Commerce when some thirty farmers assembled in response to the call and preliminary discussions followed.

Henry W. Osinich, of the Bay Mercantile Company, representing the merchants, was made chairman and stated the purpose of the meeting, to find out by record how many farmers would co-operate and how many acres could be counted on for a crop next season.

A total of 94 acres were recorded and twenty additional acres were pledged by friends of farmers who were unable to be present. The list of names of farmers and acres pledged follows in detail:

J. L. Scalfie, 5 to 7, Bay St. Louis; Joe Traino, 4, Bay St. Louis; John Benigno, 8, Bay St. Louis; G. Palumbo, 5, Bay St. Louis; Frank Russo, 10, Bay St. Louis; John Locane, 4, Bay St. Louis; G. A. Huse, 2, Lakeshore; Julian Ladner, 3, Clermont Harbor; F. B. Kline, 1, Clermont Harbor; Sam Trieno, 4, Bay St. Louis; C. W. Sylvester, 3, Bay St. Louis; Dennis Osbourne, 1, Bay St. Louis; Roman Nicaise, 1, Bay St. Louis; H. Yarbrough and John Garcia, 2, Lake Shore; S. S. Moran, 2, Kila; Frederick Buffa, 1, Ansley; Sam Benigno, 15, Bay St. Louis; A. Scalfie, 2, Bay St. Louis; Sylvester Lucich, 1, Star Route, Bay St. Louis; A. Lind, 5, Star Route, Bay St. Louis; B. D. Johnson, 2, Lake Shore; Chas. Caddy, 1, Lake Shore; T. O. Notto, 2, Bay St. Louis; David Ladner, 1, Bay St. Louis; A. G. Favre, 5, Bay St. Louis; W. J. Fleming, 1, country; Ed. Green, 2, Lake Shore; Richard Lafontaine, 2, Lake Shore; 20 acres additionally were pledged by friends unable to attend meeting.

It was evident there was much enthusiasm and substantial interest manifested and farmers showed a determination to go into the organization and grow the berries to that extent that will prove both profitable to the growers and business community.

Frank Russo was delegated to go to Hammond, La., and gather further information and to interview certain interests there willing to back the movement in Hancock county.

The meeting adjourned with a view of reconvening just as early as further data and information could be gathered. It was expected this meeting might be called for this Saturday, but as The Echo goes to press it is learned the meeting will most probably be for a date some time next week, subject to call.

MOTHER AND BABE ARE DEAD

Armevia Moran Smith and Offspring Die At Local Hospital at Supreme Moment.

Armevia Moran Smith, daughter of Forest Moran and wife of Ollie Kings, died at the Bay St. Louis Kings' Daughters Emergency Hospital on Thursday morning of this week, at 4:35 o'clock, as died her newly-born son.

Mrs. Smith was aged 21 years and was a native of Dilville, Hancock county. The funeral will take place some time this Friday from the residence of a relative, Geo. L. Cuevas, Main street and interment will be at the family cemetery at Standard.

The deceased was stricken at her home, near the Weston Gravel Pit, a victim of acute Bright's, attended to by physicians from Picayune as her condition grew worse, and with convulsions and all indications doubtful her recovery she was ordered removed where she would get organized and trained attention. Received at the hospital, her child was born the following morning.

She is survived by her husband, who was her first-born. A sad case in the extreme and evokes general sympathy.

CANDIDATE FOR COUNTY ASSESSOR

S. L. TOQUET

S. L. TOQUET ANNOUNCES ASSESSOR

With Twenty Active Years Of Experience in Land Affairs is Well Qualified.

Although an active candidate for some time, and receiving encouraging results in both city and county, S. L. Toquet, residing in Bay St. Louis, the past fifteen years, is formally announced in this issue of The County Paper as a candidate for assessor of Hancock County.

With twenty years of active experience in timbered lands, abstracts and all kinds of real estate over the county, and for practically all of that time associated with the vast realty holdings of the R. J. Williams Lumber Company, Mr. Toquet is particularly well fitted for the discharge of the duties of the office of assessor, should he be elected.

"I have had experience in every branch of land and realty operations in the county," said Mr. Toquet. "In fact, I have practically done nothing much else in my active life but negotiating affairs of timbered lands, cut-over lands, abstracts and the like, and to the extent that I am familiarly acquainted with every phase of the work."

This experience should serve Mr. Toquet in good stead, and the people would get the benefit of one who practically knows every inch of realty values in the county. It was for this reason that friends of Mr. Toquet long before this urged that he run for the office of assessor for the reason they know how well versed he is in such matters and they wanted the discharge of the duties of the office of assessor to get the advantage of his experience and ability.

He is a native of Hancock county, knows every man, woman and child and enjoys the confidence of the public as a whole and individually as well. If elected, he will serve the duties of the office both promptly and efficiently, and his courteous and genial manner at all times, will be of value and satisfaction to the public as well as his ability and experience.

SUCCESSFUL ROUND-UP BAY SCHOOL CHILDREN HELD LAST FRIDAY

Seventy-Nine Children Medically Examined Preparatory for School This Fall.

Last Friday, July 10th, the closed and peaceful Central School became very much alive again. Doctors and nurses busily transformed school rooms into impromptu clinics and hot mothers and children began to stream in early to take advantage of the splendid opportunity offered them in this examination. The interest and cooperation of Bay St. Louis mothers was demonstrated by the numbers who came, for during the day 79 children, most of whom will enter school in the fall, received a general examination, and recommendations were made to the mothers to see their family doctors for specific treatments. If these treatments are followed up the child will begin his school work in September in the best possible physical condition.

The Parent-Teachers' Association and all of Bay St. Louis feels grateful to Dr. Ship, the Hancock County Health Officer, Dr. Goldman, of Pearl River County and their public health nurse, Dr. Kutz Allen of New Orleans and Bay St. Louis and local doctors who gave so generously of their time and ability in this splendid undertaking. A tremendous credit is also due Mrs. Jas. A. Evans, Mrs. Fred Wright and Mrs. J. E. Goldman and their enthusiastic helpers whose hard work contributed so largely to the fine results obtained.

LITTLE DAMAGE BY STORM

Succession of Squalls Visits Coast Wednesday—Takes Toll Along Water Front

A number of successive squalls, blowing Wednesday noon at its peak from 40 to 50 miles, prevailed Tuesday to Thursday morning, accompanied by torrential rains, did considerable damage along the water front of both Bay St. Louis and Waveland, the biggest collective toll being bath houses and piers that were swept away by high tide and stiff gales.

In Bay St. Louis the larger portion of the superstructure of the Blaise commercial pier, head of Washington street, was carried away and the former Bay St. Louis ferry pier Cecil N. Bean days, was partially carried away, the pier now the property of R. E. de Montluzin.

A trip along the Beach boulevard both in Bay St. Louis and Waveland-Clermont Harbor district revealed the fact that no damage either to the wall or concrete roadway had been sustained. The surface of the driveway had been water-swept for several feet in places and the only evidence after the water had subsided was the fact that much debris had accumulated.

Both city forces of Bay St. Louis and Waveland were quick to be on the job and the following morning (Thursday) the bulk of debris removed and travel impediment removed.

No one, it appears, seems to remember a disaster of this kind in July excepting July 5, 1917. This has been about the only instance. In 1920-21 a storm visitation hit here, but this disturbance was the first, since the great Bay-Waveland county wall and roadway was built and although not a severe test, it is satisfying the great concrete structure suffered no damage.

Over two hundred telephones were put out of commission, but a crew from Hattiesburg reached Bay St. Louis this Thursday afternoon and the men have gone to work. Miss Alicia Ladner, resident Bay manager, reports the work of restoring phone service will begin at once and conducted as rapidly as possible, thus assuring subscribers the minimum of inconvenience.

As The Echo goes to press Thursday afternoon the weather was every indication of returning to settled condition, and possibly when this will have been printed the sun will be shining again.

ing the Falls and surrounding country the ladies will leave for home, however, Misses Engman will stop over at St. Louis where they will be guests of friends for some time.

This party is chaperoned and managed by the Misses Engman who have been instrumental largely in getting the ladies together, attending to the many details and not forgetting the business end of such a trip.

The Echo wishes the party a most delightful time and a safe trip to and fro. We are glad to see Bay St. Louis will be so ably represented at this convention where thousands will be present and of such import.

CANDIDATE GIVES OUT STATEMENT

J. E. Stockstill, In Senatorial Race, Has Splendid Legislative Record.

J. E. Stockstill authorizes us to announce his candidacy for State Senator for the 40th, District, composed of Hancock, Pearl River and Lamar counties, and points to some of his public records to wit:

He has had eight years Legislative experience and training served in the House of Representatives from 1916 to 1920, and in the Mississippi Senate from 1920 to 1924. This may be called the constructive Legislative period in Mississippi during which time Institutions were created and a great constructive building period was put over. Some institutions, which it was his privilege to aid in establishing; The Mississippi Industrial Training School, Columbia; The School and Colony for the Feeble-minded at Ellisville; the Tubercular Sanatorium at Magee, the construction of the buildings at the State Teachers College, at Hattiesburg; the removal of the McNeil State Experiment Station to Poplarville, and secured appropriation for building one of the best Agricultural Stations in Mississippi. Secured appropriations for local hospitals to have charity beds throughout Mississippi, and got the first appropriation for Pearl River County Hospital, helped to establish and maintain the State Tax Commission, voted for the reorganization of an adequate Supreme Court; revere line for line, in his work on the education committee of the Senate, the School Laws of Mississippi as they stand today; wrote the Blue Sky Law in one night's work, the most comprehensive Statute in Mississippi, except the Anti-Trust Law. Stockstill is a native-born son of this community, a lawyer, a successful business man, and an actual dirt farmer. His list of statement is as follows:

"My good friends and fellow citizen, I have been serving my own people as a lawyer, a public official and business man for more than twenty years, I love it; and desire to continue. I offer for election, as State Senator for the 40th, District, to serve the people of the District, and the State once more in the hour of need."

First, I will move to adjourn and disperse the factional politics that have beclouded the interest of our State for the past few years, and has anothered the people of the District, and the State once more in the hour of need."

LEGION PARADE, BILOXI

Colorful Pageant Depicting History of Mississippi Is Thrilling as Well.

The Mississippi department of the American Legion closed the first day of its 13th annual convention at Biloxi Monday evening with one of the most spectacular parades ever witnessed in Biloxi and one of the greatest staged by the state Legionaries. The line of march was full of color and impressiveness in striking contrast to the doughboys who left the m. bespattered trenches of France a little more than a decade ago, but the "ere just as happy. The drum corps presented brilliant spectacles. They marched in line with Jack. Green-wood corps given great credit by the thousands who lined the sidewalks as they passed in review. Captain S. P. Edmonds, recently retired as commander of the Biloxi base of Coast guard and whose career has been one of the most colorful in the U. S. Navy, both in the Spanish-American and World War, led the parade as grand marshal, being preceded only by the Stars and Stripes and the Mississippi Department banner. Every post of the state was represented.

Joe E. Rustici of Itabena laid claim to having Mississippi's speediest gopher when his entrant won the gopher derby and the $50 prize money for this event. There was a total of 50 entrants in the derby. Dan Sowers' quarter-ton sea turtle, which he captured on Ship Island Saturday night, was barred because of his being in the heavyweight class.

The day's entertainment program was brought to a close Monday night with a magnificent pageant of the colorful history of Mississippi as the Dan Sowers' quarter-ton sea turtle, which he captured on Ship Island Saturday night, was barred because of his being in the heavyweight class.

NOT LIKELY TO HAPPEN.

COMPLETE prohibition will be in effect when the people of this country stop drinking.—Hattiesburg American. But is there even a faint hope that they will ever stop? After more than ten years of effort to dry up the country we are told by those claiming to be in a position to know what they are talking about, there is more liquor drunk than before the Eighteenth Amendment was adopted.

MORE MISSIONARY WORK NEEDED.

Forty women from five States attending the leadership school of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, at Fayetteville, Arkansas, have signed a petition pledging themselves to seek to arouse public opinion against lynching. Every law abiding citizen in this country is already aroused "to the menace of the crime of lynching," but, we regret to say, there must be a lot of missionary work done before public opinion will put an end to acts of mob violence.

HON. MARTIN T. DRAUGHON DIES.

Hon. Martin T. Draughon, chancery clerk of Forrest county, died at a hospital in Hattiesburg last Thursday. He was a faithful public servant, a splendid and public spirited citizen, and a Christian gentleman. What more need be said of him or give reason for the wide spread grief which his passing on brought to all who knew him.

IDEA STILL MAINTAINED.

Those two Texas aviators who attempted to make a non-stop flight to Japan last week came to grief near Nome, Alaska. Owing to rough weather the effort to refuel their airship was a failure, but they have not given up the idea of making a non-stop hop to the land of cherry blossoms and slant-eyed girls.

WAITING AND HOPING.

In Newton county a well has been drilled to a great depth and the folks up there are looking and hoping that it will turn out to be a gusher of oil or gas. They will not have long to wait until they will know if the venture around which they have centered their hopes will prove one or the other.

SECOND TO NONE.

Hattiesburg now claims to have a sewer system second to none in the South, the same having been completed and accepted by the city commissioners a few days ago. The system was constructed at a cost of $400,000 and added approximately 45 miles to the system existing prior to the improvement.

QUARREL SETTLED.

Robert Guy and Will McNair, who were competitors in the sale of red-earth worms for fish bait at Hattiesburg, fell out last week and proceeded to settle their quarrel, with knife and pistol. Result: Guy is dead from a bullet that severed his spine and McNair is recovering from knife stabs in a Hub City hospital.

The department of agriculture announces that 41,491,000 acres of land were planted in cotton this year, as compared with 46,078,000 acres last season.

Senator Pat Harrison believes that the South will soon become the greatest paper manufacturing center in the world. Let us all hope that he isn't wrong,—and we don't think he is.

This is the peach season, and never before has South Mississippi had so bounteous a crop of the fruit, by long odds the most delicious and healthful of the fruits grown in this God-favored section.

Crude oil in the mid-continent area has tumbled in price since last November when it was selling at 91 cents a barrel to 18 cents. Many wells have been shut down until the oil market improves.

The Washington Star says a man who goes into a campaign with less than $100,000 is regarded by veterans as merely playing "Tom Thumb" politics. Of course the Star, had in mind senatorial campaigns in Pennsylvania and some other northern states.

There has been a price-cutting war going on among the milk dealers of Birmingham, Alabama, and last Friday it reached real serious proportions when a bomb was thrown into one plant and in its explosion wrecked several buildings, killed two men and injured a score of other persons.

There is a persistent rumor to the effect that the womanhood of Mississippi intends to vote for men for all official positions who can hear the Decalogue and fast no self reproach.—Hon. Edgar S. Wilson in Mobile Register. Should such rumor prove correct, then the day of Mississippi's salvation will have arrived.

WITHOUT COMPASS OR RUDDER

Up to this good hour The Echo has heard of no candidate for a State office declaring he was a dyed-in-the-wool Democrat, a devoted adherent to the principles and policies of the party of Thomas Jefferson and Andrew Jackson.

All five of the gubernatorial aspirants and the host of State, district and legislative candidates have been speaking here, there and everywhere, but not one, so far as The Echo can learn, has declared or offered any proof that he was a party man—"pure and undefiled,"—and who knows but what there are not among the host of candidates some who were disloyal back in 1928.

Back in the old days when Democratic conventions were held a platform was framed and candidates would could not or did not advocate the principles enunciated therein were read out of the party organization. In recent times there has been no pledge of party loyalty either asked or demanded of those seeking political preferment. Without compass or rudder, our Democratic barque has been drifting aimlessly and as an organization has virtually landed on the rocks of disintegration, demoralization, and destruction.

Where is any one to be found who will dispute or deny that the condition in which our State now finds itself is not indirectly traceable to the failure of the Democratic party to nominate and elect men to office about whose loyalty and adherence to its tenets and principles there was no doubt. And why? The bars have been let down to such an extent that demagogues and petty politicians have been in the ascending for a generation or longer.

The Echo may be mistaken, but it does not think so, there is little chance of bettering conditions in Mississippi until the Democratic party goes back to the old convention system—all down the line, from State offices to the lowest elective position.

CHICKENS COME HOME TO ROOST.

In the senatorial district composed of Harrison and Stone counties there has long existed a "gentlemen's agreement," under the terms of which first one county and then the other would supply the senator. This year it was the turn of Stone county to place a man in the field, and there was no dearth of candidates, but it so happens that Stone county polled its full strength in the presidential election of 1928 and when the ballots were counted it developed that a considerable majority of the electorate had voted for the Republican nominees.

Under such conditions, the true, tried and proven Democracy of Harrison county feels justified in repudiating the "gentlemen's agreement," and will have a senatorial candidate of their own.

The Echo unqualifiedly endorses such action, and as Harrison county's voting strength more than trebles that of Stone county there is no danger of a 1928 Hoovercrat representing the district in the State senate.

The disloyalty of the Stone county Democrats who deserted their party in 1928 is remembered and now they will be made to pay for their treachery by being deprived of the honor of having their county represented in the State senate by a man of their own and undisputed choice. "Chickens most always come home to roost."

A PROBLEM FOR EVERY LOYAL MISSISSIPPIAN.

In a recent issue the Collins Commercial printed a most timely editorial under the caption, "Time to Think," and in discussing the responsibility resting upon the shoulders of the Mississippi electorate, suggested: "Let those of us who have not given thought to this matter get busy and do some 'heavy' thinking. The magnitude of the proposition demands this of you and you owe it to yourself and to your government. It is not a matter to be cast aside as a trifle, it is not one to be lightly considered, nor is it one to leave to the other fellow, but a problem that should claim the best thought of every loyal and true Mississippian. It is time to do something for Mississippi, it is time to forget all else and apply ourselves to the task before us. When we have done that, the result will be that the best men in the political field will be chosen."

LIBEL SUIT FILED.

The Kansas City Star has been made defendant in a $12,000,000 libel suit, the same being filed by Henry L. Doherty, head of the Cities Service Company. It seems that the Star has been waging a campaign to get fair gas rates for domestic consumers, and after the suit was filed the Star said editorially that "it is common tactics to bring libel suit in order to bluff off aggressive newspapers that are fighting the public's battles," but that "the Star does not propose to be intimidated into any letup in its fight to force a reduction of rates to a fair level as determined by the constituted authorities of Kansas and Missouri, the public service commissions."

DESERVING THE CREDIT.

It was a shock to some leading Republicans when Jonett Shouse, executive chairman and publicity director of the Democratic National Committee, declared: "President Hoover's position shows statesmanship, courage and decision," (having reference to his proposal for a moratorium.) Only blind partisanship would withhold from the president the credit due him for his most meritorious action. The head of no other country could even suggest a suspension of payment of the war debts and thereby save Germany from certain and absolute financial collapse.

"SINGLE SHOT" VOTING GETS NOTHING.

The Mississippi State Democratic executive committee met in Jackson on the 7th instant and in addition to other business transacted adopted a resolution prohibiting "single-shot" voting and in the event it is practiced in the coming primary votes so cast will not be counted. It would be well for all who contemplate indulging in the practice of "single-shotting" to hear this in mind, otherwise they will hurt instead of help the candidate of their choice.

VIEWS OF OUR NEWS

By Chicagoan

Chicago, Ill., July 14.—Fr. R. J. Kirschmeyer, Denver cleric and himself an educator, points to the press of the nation as the source of the average person's education. Such was the gist of his talk, according to last week's Echo, when he appeared at the meeting of the Mississippi Coast Press Club as the guest of his brother-in-law, L. S. Elliott and Editor Moreau who was host to the meeting held at the Hotel Weston. Reading the words of the learned divine, residents of Bay St. Louis must have more than ever appreciated the high standards set by their local newspaper, The Echo, and to have realized more keenly than ever the value of such an educational force in their community.

And following the headlines in last week's Echo, more is to be found regarding education, for we are told that the Board of City School Trustees have again elected S. J. Ingram to the office of City Superintendent for the term which will continue through the next two years. And with the exception of Miss Mary Gordon who will have charge of the language department, the board has provided the students of Bay St. Louis with the same faculty under which they so successfully progressed during 1931. That the action of the board will have the enthusiastic approval of the patrons of the school system of your town is evident from the tone in which the Echo told of the election.

Speaking further of education, there is something wrong with training of a man or woman who endangers the lives and well being of others by the reckless use of good highways. The Bay St. Louis Chamber of Commerce issued a timely and wise appeal to all to exert their influence against the public menace of speeding. The civic organization realizes the disadvantages of a strict road patrol that can soon give a town a bad reputation in the eyes of the motoring public, but such tragic occurrences as the one of last week which caused the death of little Babel Creason are reminders of the fact that our good highways are often abused as well as used.

"Time and tide wait for no man!" E. J. Lacoste, Jr., and Harry Glover, Jr., probably remember learning that saying while still little fellows in grammar school. And the news last week which told of their reopening the pleasure resort formerly used by the Bay-Wave-land Yacht Club indicates that these young men do not intend letting any year slip by without accomplishing something for the good of their community. I don't know what E. J. and Harry are doing with the "tide," but they have surely taken "Time" by the forelock. And what a time Time will have trying to beat the time of two young men with such ambition and initiative.

While George R. Rea carried the fame of Bay St. Louis to the members of Kappa Sigma, of which he is national treasurer, as they gathered for a summer session on Bigwinn Island in Canada, Miss Irene Sellier, having successfully completed a four-year fellowship in Tulane Medical College, arrived at the home of her parents for a short rest before taking up her duties as scientific research assistant in the Louisiana State Medical Center in New Orleans. In that capacity, this talented daughter of Bay St. Louis will add her portion to the accomplishments of Bay folks that already are known around the world.

And while others promote the welfare of Bay Saint Louis at home and abroad, Adam Lorch, St. Louis, one who does not want to see the progress of the town fall into a slower pace. According to last week's Echo, Mr. Lorch addressed the Rotary Club last week stressing the further possibilities of the Bay City . . . and convincing his hearers of his sincerity and enthusiasm.

And this brings me to the place where I must admit that my enthusiasm sometimes gets the better of my tongue (my fingers, rather) and then I may allow a word or a sentence to slip into this column that is not pleasing to everybody. Now, "Billy" Schwartz saved his job by reporting his capture of that 66 pound stingray, but at that "Billy" will admit that he would have handed the monster had it not been so enthusiastic when he dropped his bait into the water. The fish that have learned to keep their mouths shut at the proper time are still swimming happily about in the blue waters of the Gulf. And maybe, young Schwartz's conquering of that stingray should be a lesson for me.

ACTUAL HARD-SURFACING OF O. S. T. BEGUN FROM LA.-MISS. STATE LINE.

LAST FRIDAY an official message to The Echo brought forth the information that work of hard surfacing the Old Spanish Trail from the La.-Miss. State line was progressing to that extent that already the "Y" section of the route had been reached and considerable headway was noted. Highway Commissioner Thames spent the first several days with Chief Supt. Harris, personally seeing that matters were expedited and hoping to get the work finished for the ten-mile stretch as early as practicable. At no time has traffic been interrupted more than from fifteen to twenty minutes, said Mr. Thames, and this indeed is a matter of note. The idea of unnecessarily tying up or delaying traffic is by no means creditable to contractors or those higher up in charge, and that the O. S. T. in this instance has at no time been tied up to traffic no longer than a few minutes is to be commended. It is a manifestation of intelligent handling and a consideration to the public.

R. R. HEADQUARTERS OF OVER FIFTY YEARS IN BAY CITY NOW REMOVED.

With the removal of the last of the L. & N. Divisional offices from the local depot building to Mobile brings to mind the fact that these offices, in part, have been here for well nigh fifty years. Bay St. Louis was quite a center for the L. & N. divisional workers as well as for certain headquarters. Divisional Supt. Charles Marshall made his home in Bay St. Louis during the greater part of his time as such head.

With the removal of the last of the divisional offices, as stated in The Echo last week, there will be no use for the upper story of the splendid building the L. & N. constructed here some two or three years ago when it was planned for the continuance of housing the N. O.-Mobile division auditing department. Had it been foreseen what has taken place, it is plain the building would have only been a one-story affair.

DINING ROOM OF THE TIME WHEN DINING CARS WERE UNKNOWN TO TRAVELERS.

One well remembers the old somewhat handsome and attractive depot frame building of two stories in Bay St. Louis that well stood over a period of fifty years until destroyed one night by fire from unknown cause.

The L. & N. was often accused of having built a finer and more pretentious depot building for Bay St. Louis than for any other Coast city and the fact, as it seemed, created no small amount of community jealousy. But the truth was to the effect that the old building with its architectural lines of elegance was built for several specific purposes. For years, when there were no dining cars, Bay St. Louis was one of the twenty-minute stops for through trains in order passengers might partake of their meals. And what delicious and liberal helpings. Those of us who live can well remember the white frocked dining room attendants who met all trains and beat with emphatic tom tom the sound from a great dishpan vessel used for that purpose.

SANDWICHES OF QUALITY MINUS QUANTITY.

And those delicious tiny ham sandwiches that sold for 10 cents. The home-made bread was thin and the dearth of ham between was more acutely noticed, but the lack of quantity was well recompensed by the quality. This writer shall never forget these sandwiches. Costing ten cents and how many a child-like appetite could put away! This main depot was located in that section where the main white waiting room was located.

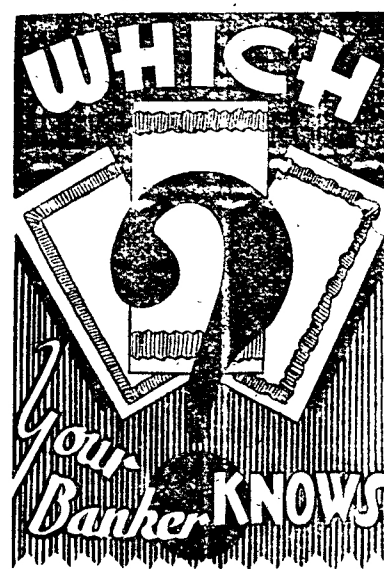

BEAUTIFUL GARDENS OF OTHER DAYS NOT FORGOTTEN.

Then again the upper story was used largely for living quarters. Spacious and well appointed. Depot Agent John Green as a young man lived there with his family. One who may remember will never forget the colorful and luxuriant flower garden that surrounded the rear and side of the building. This garden was walled in and belonged to the private premises but could be seen from different points of vantage and was generally admired for its beauty. This picture of an old-fashioned garden, with its wilderness of flowers and riot of vibrant color will ever live in memory.

"FRIED OYSTERS" AND "FRIED FISH SANDWICHES" HAVE THEIR INNING.

With the advent of the dining car and after it became apparent that the innovation had come to stay, regardless of Jesse James prices, the Bay St. Louis depot dining room, with its delicious cooking and reasonable prices, soon became a thing of the past—to live only as a reverie. It was then the famous cry of "fried oysters" from many husky throats of young fellows who sold their oyster sandwiches along the car windows as the train parked long enough to receive orders and for passengers to embark and disembark, became a well known term and familiar phrase. It took leather lungs plus certain amount of salesmanship to dispose of the fried bivalves bounded together by a double slice of bread and wrapped in a small paper bag readily and quickly before the train pulled out. The little bag was not only used as a sanitary measure but a medium to keep the oysters warm, as a cold oyster sandwich is akin to drinking a draught of champagne that had not been sufficiently frapped.

"Fried Oysters" and "Fried Fish" became an institution. Children put on trains alone in summer to come out to visit relatives or for a stay, left New Orleans with this injunction, "Don't get out until you hear the cry of 'fried oysters' and 'fried fish.'" The diner was not on all trains for many years and the sale of seafood was a prosperous business and brought to Bay St. Louis thousands of dollars annually that otherwise would never find way in local business channels. However, times change. Train equipment improved with service and now all through trains carry magnificently-appointed dining cars, with selection of foods and at prices none who travel is too poor to afford, and the business of the fried oyster and fried fish boys is anything but to the good. Its ranks have decimated to that number where possibly one or two meet cer-

TUNG OIL BUSINESS PROMISES TO BECOME INDUSTRY FOR COAST

By W. D. ROBINSON

Over Three Million Tung Oil Trees Are Growing in Nurseries in South Mississippi—Industry That Promises To Revolutionize Agricultural and Industrial Life of The South.

The tung oil business is fast becoming a major industry in the Gulf Coast region of Mississippi, Louisiana, Florida and Alabama. The estimate value of the industry in the Coast area of the States named at the present time is around $5,000,000. If the growth of the industry continues at the same rate of recent years the valuation within four or five years will be at least $15,000,000 or $20,000,000, and at the end of ten or twelve years it will be worth $100,000,000.

This is the youngest American industry and it promises to become one of the largest. Somebody will make a lot of money out of it. Thousands of men will get steady employment.

Tung oil production will be confined strictly to the coast districts of Mississippi, Louisiana, Alabama and Florida because of climatic and soil conditions. Tests have demonstrated that tung trees will grow in the coast region on account of the danger of frost destroying the blossoms in colder climates. The trees must be grown within 100 miles of the Gulf of Mexico. This gives the coast territory a monopoly of the tung oil business.

About 20 years ago the United States department of Agriculture imported tung tree nuts from China for experiment purposes, with the view of laying the foundation for establishing the tung oil industry in this country. Seed were distributed to nurserymen and farmers and planted about on the same latitude clear across this continent. This was near the thirty-first degree of latitude. Among those on this coast who received seed was Joe I. Wilson, nurseryman of Landon, about five miles north of Gulfport. Some seed were planted further north to determine if the trees would thrive and yield fruit in a colder climate.

Careful records were kept of all the seed planted and the young trees that were transplanted. It was found that the trees would produce fruit only in the coastal area. These facts established the Federal Department of Agriculture then turned its attention to getting the tung oil industry established on a commercial scale. The first work was concentrated in the vicinity of Gainesville, Fla. Seeds were obtained from tung trees that were producing nuts in Florida, Mississippi and other states and sent to the Gainesville section, where large groves were planted. When the groves began producing in sufficient quantities the first tung oil mill in the United States was built near Gainesville. The oil proved to be superior to the tung oil imported from China. That gave the industry a big boost. Citizens of other States bordering on the Gulf of Mexico then took it up and rapid expansion followed.

Investigation showed that the tung oil trees planted in the coast territory between the Mississippi River on the west and the Alabama River on the east thrived better than those planted elsewhere in the coast region. For instance, it was found that a four-year-old tung tree in South Mississippi was as large as a six-year-old tung tree in Florida. Further investigation showed that this was due to soil conditions. The Florida soil contains a considerable amount of lime and lime rock. The soil in South Mississippi and South Alabama is remarkably free from lime. Tung trees cannot stand much lime.

Discovery of these conditions caused investors in the tung oil business to turn their attention to the coast districts of Mississippi and Alabama. For that reason the greatest activity is taking place in these two States, particularly in South Mississippi.

Careful investigation shows that tung trees have been planted on 150,000 acres of land in South Mississippi, Florida, South Alabama and Eastern Louisiana. Over 3,000,000 tung trees are now growing in nurseries in South Mississippi alone and are to be transplanted on farms next winter. This is a sufficient number of trees to plant about 20,000 acres of land.

While there are extensive tung oil groves in different sections of South Mississippi, the biggest development is in the country around Picayune, Miss. Picayune is now the center of a great deal of tung oil activity.

Lamont Rowlands is the largest investor in the tung oil business at Picayune and Mr. Rowlands and L. O. Crosby are leading in the movement to develop the industry on a big scale in the Picayune district. Mr. Rowlands, in a letter to the writer, gives some interesting information about his work.

"Our tung oil development," Mr. Rowlands writes, "is located a few miles northwest of Picayune, where the country is rolling and well drained, with an elevation of about 300 feet above sea level. We are fencing 9000 acres of cut-over land, 6000 of which we planted in tung trees this year, using a total of about 400,000 plants. We have planted approximately 1,300,000 seeds in a nursery comprising 350 acres. The trees are growing vigorously and will be more than waist high by the end of June. I should say that 90 per cent of the up and growing at the present time.

"Soil tests of the land around Picayune indicate that it has just the food that the tung oil plant requires. It is slightly acid in character and free from lime, a condition which is essential for the growth of tung oil trees, and fairly high in nitrogen and phosphorus. The rainfall is evenly distributed in this section, with sufficient humid weather to allow the plant to feed through its leaves, which wonderfully stimulates its growth.

"We have developed a method of preparing the ground and planting which has so materially reduced the cost as compared to methods used in other tung oil sections that I doubt if any planting costs will ever be lower than ours.

"On our property the drainage basins which cannot be planted to tung oil can be used to pasture cattle. A profitable live stock industry can thus be developed with very little expense and at the same time utilize all of the land incorporated in the tung oil project.

"On account of the ideal soil and climatic conditions, I do not believe there is any place in the world where tung oil can be produced at as low cost as in this vicinity. Every fact obtained about the soil, rainfall, climate and drainage indicates that this section is peculiarly adapted to the growth of tung trees.

"This is the most interesting proposition that has ever come to my attention and I believe that at a minimum cost there can be developed one of the greatest industries the South has ever known. In my opinion, tung oil will not only bring a profit, but those who are directly interested financially, but will be a tremendous factor in the future development and prosperity of this entire Gulf Coast region."

Figures on the acreage in land planted with tung trees in the Gulf Coast States show South Mississippi has 9700 acres, Florida 5600 acres, South Alabama 3500 acres and Eastern Louisiana 300 acres. This places the Mississippi Coast region far in the lead in the development of the industry.

Tung oil is an essential ingredient in the manufacture of paint and varnish. It is used extensively in the waterproofing of cloth, for making linoleum, for insulating electric wiring, as a filler for automobile tires, for automobile brake linings and scores of other things. In fact, its general use is increasing at a rapid rate. Recently it was discovered that the wings of airplanes, when given a coat of tung oil, made them free from accumulation of ice while the machines were flying at high altitudes.

Henceforth all tung oil used in the United States has been imported from China. This country consumes about 75 per cent of the Chinese output. Last year about 130,000,000 pounds of the oil was imported from China.

Chinese methods of manufacturing the oil are so primitive that, even with cheap coolie labor, China cannot compete with modern American machine methods.

GOOD WOMAN CALLED TO REST; LAID AWAY IN CEDAR CEMETERY

Leonora Labat, Aged 58, Passed Away Friday Morning in Peaceful Slumber.

Leonora Labat, wife of Joseph Labat, well-known and highly respected colored family of this city, passed away to her eternal reward on the day the week that the Lord's Son died for the world, Friday. She had not been feeling quite well and remained in her room that morning. It was while asleep at 10:45 o'clock she passed away, as peacefully as she had lived a life of useful years, filled with golden deeds to humanity, knowing no creed or color, rank or distinction. A devout member of the Catholic church, she worked in the Master's vineyard along with those whose vocation lie in that direction.

She loved her Master, the church and its work, and lived according to the prescribed precepts. She had successfully reared a large family, and her home demanded much of her attention, but she found much time visiting the sick and comforting those in sorrow. She not only served her Creator and her race, but her humanity was well high, proverbial, and her death removes from the midst of Bay St. Louis one who served the community without thought of self, only seeking at all times to alleviate the suffering and to comfort the distressed. These sublime virtues will ever live and form an ineffable record.

She was a native of Bay St. Louis and 58 years old at the time of her death, and during the forty years of her marriage had reared a large and useful family of eleven children, all living, as follows:

Inez Labat, of the faculty of Fisk School at New Orleans; Fabian Labat, employed clerically in government department at Washington, D. C.; Joseph Labat, tailor of Bay St. Louis; Portia Labat, Lucien Labat, Celestine Labat, Mrs. Elise Webster, of Hattiesburg; Victor Labat of New Orleans; Sylvia, Clothilde and Veronica Labat.

In addition to her husband and children the deceased is survived by two sisters, Amelie Curry and Minnie Favre, and one brother, George Roney.

The funeral took place Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock, with special requiem mass ceremony at the church of St. Rose de Lima, Rev. Father F. X. Bales, pastor, officiating and interment at Cedar Rest Cemetery.

A wealth of flowers from white and colored friends both of this city and from away covered the grave, marking the resting place of a good woman.

BILIOUS

"I have used Black-Draught . . . and have not found anything that could take its place. I take Black-Draught for biliousness. When I get bilious, I have a nervous headache and a nervous, trembling feeling that unfits me for my work. After I take a few doses of Black-Draught, I get all right. When I begin to get bilious, I feel tired and run-down, and then the headache and trembling. But Black-Draught relieves all this."—H. O. Hendrix, Homerville, Ga.

LESTER FRANKLIN MUST QUIT JOB OR RACE, SAYS PRESS

Jackson Daily News Cites Section of Code Which Would Bar Present Candidate.

Jackson Daily News, Frank Sullens' newspaper, of Tuesday said that Lester C. Franklin under the law must either resign as chairman of the State Tax Commission or withdraw from the race for governor of Mississippi.

The newspaper quoted opinions from Jackson attorneys, who held that the law specifically prohibits any member of the Tax Commission from taking an active part in any political campaign.

Mr. Franklin was out of the city on a speaking tour and could not be reached for a statement.

The Daily News cited this section of the code as bearing out its statement:

"Each commissioner shall be a qualified elector and freeholder in this State, shall possess special knowledge of the subject of taxation and shall devote his entire time to the duties of his office, and shall not hold any other position of trust or profit or engage in any other occupation or business interfering with or inconsistent with his official duties or serve on or under any committee of any political party, or the campaign organization of any candidate for public office in any primary or general election or take any active part in any political campaign for the election of any person or persons to any public office."

A. S. McDonald of Pass Christian Dies After Long Illness

A. S. McDonald, 62 years old, of Pass Christian died Monday morning following an illness extending over several weeks. He was a life-long resident of that city and actively identified with civic affairs.

He served for several years as president of the board of trustees of local public schools, president of Coast Union No. 10, B. M. & P. L. U., and as a member of city council.

Mr. McDonald is survived by his wife, five sons, A. S. Jr., Charles, William, Francis and Thomas McDonald, and four daughters, Mrs. John Ellis, Miss Rose McDonald, Miss Catherine McDonald, all of Pass Christian. Other surviving relatives are two brothers, Captain John T. and Robert McDonald of Pass Christian, and two sisters, Mrs. Anne Byrne of St. Louis and Mrs. Caroline E. Bohn of that city. He was a member of St. Paul's Catholic church. Funeral services were held from the McDonald home on St. Louis avenue Tuesday afternoon, the Rev. Wm. J. Leech, pastor of the Catholic church, officiating. Interment was in the Catholic cemetery.

Well-Known Young Woman Removed By Death After Long Illness.

Louise Thomas, colored, well-known to many households in Bay St. Louis where she successfully followed her vocation of practical nurse, passed away at her home in this city last Thursday evening at 6:30 o'clock, following a lingering illness.

She was born in New Orleans, aged 58 years, and had resided in Bay St. Louis the past fifteen years, approximately.

The funeral took place Saturday morning at 9 o'clock, Rev. Father F. X. Bales, pastor of the church of St. Rose de Lima, and interment at Cedar Rest Cemetery.

She was unmarried and had no immediate kin, but many friends and acquaintances who paid her memory tribute by attending the last obsequies both at the church and cemetery, and many flowers which covered her grave, a mute testimony of friendship and esteem. She was a devout Catholic, and a member of both organizations, the Ladies of Progress and Ladies of Violet.

Her work nursing the sick was well known. She was a devotee of her profession and carried out her work with the kind and tender ministrations which rendered her services so much in demand.

WAVELAND, A CITY OF CONTENTMENT, HEALTH AND IMPROVEMENT

Playground of Thousands From New Orleans for Generations—March of Progress Past Two Years Leaves Marvelous Impress—Claims No Boom But Only The Result of Diligent and Intelligent Application

THE FRIENDS of our sister city of Waveland are justly jubilant and proud of the rapid strides made within their territorial confines the past year or two. Their material and commercial expansion is well worthy, and the spirit of co-operation in a large measure is one of the outstanding elements of success.

Waveland has ever been popular with that contingent of thousands from New Orleans who annually make up the summer colony. Its close proximity to the metropolis, its location directly facing the sound and gulf waters which, like Bay St. Louis, enjoy "morning sun and evening shade," with its wave-kissed shores heavily fringed with oaks form a combination of advantages that as a whole is difficult to compete with. Generations have come to Waveland season after season, and with the succeeding years this popularity has increased. Today we find Waveland enjoying the fruit of a marked impetus of this stride. Marked increase in building of many residences, possibly a hundred or two in the last bi-ennial period seems to be only setting the pace, for other improvements of the character are either in the embryonic or actual formation.

Waveland, more so than other towns burdened under the drawbacks which beset the wake of repeated wave and wind storms that, following repetition, finally took the great toll of destroying the front roadway. This condition remained for a dozen years or more, although the municipality always rebuilt in the best manner possible with limited means in the face of decreased assessment, until the county built the great seawall with its sweep of concrete surfaced boulevard. This was a colossal stride, a gigantic improvement, insuring of only solidity and immunity from water and wind, but that permanency which created a confidence that not even the most timid could fail to realize.

Coleman avenue, the main business artery, is hard-surfaced its full length and the nucleus of a greater business center is already established. Here we find the postoffice, housed in a modern and attractive building, the town's drug store (new for Waveland) located alongside and not only an equally fine building but with modern fixtures and a stock that is both attractive for its selection and fine quality of goods. Not any distance away, we find a general merchandise store that is noted both for its size and the completeness of its stock and the general air of prosperity that belongs to all well-managed business establishments. This is one of other stores in the vicinity, and also including Nicholson and Waveland avenues. Then far down Coleman avenue we note the new $12,000 modern brick school building, easily a pride of the community.

Waveland has its own ice establishment supplying that community as well as Clement Harbor, Lakeshore, Ansley and adjacent territory. Also, the town has its waterworks system, supplying patrons with the finest water and dispensed to property holders and others at minimum annual tariff.

Its Board of Mayor and Aldermen, and immediate predecessors have in a great measure made all of these improvements possible by a generous and far-seeing policy, inviting outsiders and welcoming investors. The school board is progressive and its Parent-Teachers' Association under the leadership of one of the most active and progressive women in the State has more than ordinary accomplishment to its credit.

A first-class sub-division, strictly residential and high-class, beginning from the beach boulevard and running back along a line of ingratiating oaks, has not only added beauty but value as well. This, perhaps, not the largest, but on the best built and most inviting vistas along the great strand of the coast.

It is not surprising then that many flock to Waveland. Land values are sustained while quality and demand have increased. A home in Waveland, with all the primeval beauty of nature's favorite spot, can well be termed a fond dream come true. Here is beauty, health, contentment and a "paradise avenu." He who would seek the happiness born of contentment need go no further.

Recently the business men of Waveland, within the time necessary for the accomplishment, raised a sum of several hundred dollars cash, and put forth an advertisement to the world that no town of its size and many of several towns larger, would not in the times of depression venture forth. A half page space was contracted for in one of the daily newspapers of a nearby metropolis and friendly gesture aptly and artistically illustrated was done into printers ink—that greatest of all forces. It was marking the opening of the season, and an invitation of generous heart and inspired by thoughtful mind. This was sponsored by some twenty or thirty business firms whose signatures were appended. The glad hand and warmth of grasp has found responsive attention. Waveland claims "no boom." It would not have it so. This would prove disastrous as only too recently we found this result in territory not a thousand miles away. Waveland indulges in no wild cat dreams; it is not seeking rainbow ends with the reputed pots of gold; no orgies of speculation of dreams that verge on the impossible, but rather, it looks to the pace and hope that would make for only that substantial and just reward for those who build wisely and conservatively.

Will The Fenders of Your Automobile Be Stained With The Blood Of Innocent Victim?

By JOHN T. MEYERS
(For The Sea Coast Echo)

TODAY is the day of rapid transportation. Power, endurance, and speed are the three vital essentials that are foremost in the minds of designers and manufacturers who are keeping always on step ahead in supplying the ever-increasing demand of our advanced civilization for speedy transportation.

But while our rapid modes of travel have made mankind master of both space and time, we are confronted today with a traffic problem that grows more serious and alarming as the speed rate of the modern motor car is increased.

There is no question that speed and power have their rightful place in the general scheme of transportation today. On wide open highways, and where roads and traffic conditions warrant, high speeds may be utilized by competent and experienced drivers with a maximum degree of safety. However, the power-drunk and speed-crazed driver who roars wildly through cities, towns, and along boulevards with caution thrown to the winds, is the one responsible for the greatest majority of motoring casualties.

Although, no doubt, they may emphatically deny the accusation, and furnish feeble alibies, drivers of this type are closely akin to road hogs, intoxicated drivers, and other irresponsible persons. Sooner or later their fenders will be stained with the blood of some innocent victim. What does it matter if they shed bitter tears of regret after some defenseless child or other human life has been sacrificed because of their misjudgment?

The fact that one thought he could control his motor car is unquestionably an inadequate excuse. Common sense should inform drivers of automobiles that high speed and reckless driving about cities and towns, and along crowded highways can only result in disaster to either themselves, others—or both.

Traffic laws are made and enforced to protect both motorists and pedestrians. Every motorist who wilfully disobeys traffic regulations is a potential criminal of the most cowardly rank. He is as dangerous to his fellow humans as the mad dog running amuck, even though on the surface it would be hard to recognize the resemblance as he sits behind the steering wheel of his big shiny motor car.

Common sense should be a vital part of every motorist's equipment as he drives about in his speedy modern day automobile. If only automobile manufacturers could work this feature in with the many other improved qualities... what a valuable help it would be to some of the fool-hearted speed demons one meets at every turn of the road, as they whizz past with the grim reaper having a third hand on the steering wheel.

BIG SONG FEST AT GULFSIDE

Two or Three Hundred Voices Will Sing at Waveland on Sunday Evening, August 30.

Bishop R. E. Jones and the Promotional Secretary announce that plans are under way for presenting a big song fest at Gulfside Sunday afternoon, August 30. A choir of some two or three hundred voices especially trained will sing a number of Spirituals and Jubilees on this occasion. The program will be complimentary to the host of Gulfside friends on the Coast and elsewhere in this section. The Spirituals to be sung will be selected by Alma Lilly Hubbard and J. S. P. Lee. The former has won quite a distinction by reason of the fact that it was she who largely selected the Spirituals for Marc Connelly's famous play, "The Green Pastures," which has had a steady run on Broadway for more than a year and is still going strong.

An effort is being made to assemble an audience of some several thousand people for the occasion. It will no doubt be an enjoyable occasion for those who appreciate listening to Negroes sing. No pains will be spared to make this program worth while, according to announcement from Promotional Secretary's office.

A feature of the program will be the solo singing of Mrs. Hubbard and several numbers by the Gulfside quartet, an aggregation that made quite a reputation last summer singing over the radio and on concert tour of some of the inland and Coast towns of Mississippi.

Consider your Adam's Apple!!* Don't Rasp Your Throat

With Harsh Irritants

"Reach for a LUCKY instead"

Everyone has an Adam's Apple—Every man—every woman has one. Touch your Adam's Apple with your finger. You are actually touching your larynx—this is your voice box—it contains your vocal chords. When you consider your Adam's Apple, you are considering your throat—your vocal chords.

"TOASTING" expels certain harsh irritants present in all raw tobaccos. These expelled irritants are not present in your LUCKY STRIKE—the modern cigarette. We sell these expelled irritants to manufacturers of chemical compounds. Everyone knows that sunshine mellows—that's why the "TOASTING" Process includes the use of Ultra Violet Rays. LUCKY STRIKE—made of the finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—THEN—"IT'S TOASTED"—an extra, secret and exclusive heating process. It is this process that expels these harsh irritants. No wonder 20,679 American physicians have stated LUCKIES to be less irritating. No wonder LUCKIES are always kind to your throat. And so we say "Consider your Adam's Apple." Be careful in your choice of cigarettes.

CURRENT COMMENT

For The Sea Coast Echo.

Three men are due to be executed within a few days in a state prison. The chances are that they will get what they deserve. Alienists have pronounced them sane. They knew what they were doing. The alienists did not have a shot at the jury. A good degree of mentality is required from a man who is going to be hung. As to the man who is to have the say about the hanging, it is perfectly safe to take a chance.

The Minister of Finance of France hastily sends for an impromptu guest, when he finds that 13 are about to sit down at his table. Instead of charging him with superstition, why not assume that he had a fine consideration for the peace of mind of his guests, which is the first and most important care of a host.

Independence for the Philippines is again being agitated, but it is considered that freedom for the islands would produce disaster. When we took them under our wing, back in the Spanish-American War days, the cry of "Imperialism" (who remembers it?) was raised, and we were assured that the United States was headed for disaster. It would be interesting to know whether any of the 1898 prophets of disaster, still are of the same cast of mind, but on the opposite side of the fence. As for the Philippines themselves, they are no doubt willing to try their hand at a little home-made disaster, and take the consequences.

It has been suggested that prohibition agents be forbidden to taste alleged liquor when securing evidence against a violation of the law. This is a practical enough idea, but it is a pity that the prohibitionists are not as practical as they are dogmatic.

As a poet, William Cullen Bryant has gone somewhat into the discard. People are not reading poems about the woods, the waters, and the prairies. Perhaps they will come back to it. In the meantime, let a note be made of a fact which is prosaic and practical enough to find lodgment anywhere. It was brought to remembrance recently by a public speaker at the unveiling of a tablet in the poet's memory. As editor of the New York Evening Post, Bryant was the first great newspaper man to maintain the right of working men to form unions.

Lady at Pass Christian Has New Way of Cooking Strawberries by Sun Rays

Mrs. Margaret M. Price, who operates a fruit preserving plant at 726 West Beach, Pass Christian, has developed a new method of preserving strawberries by cooking the berries by the rays of the sun. Strawberries are placed in containers covered with glass to protect them from dust and then exposed to the rays of the sun until they are cooked to the proper degree.

Tests show that strawberries preserved by this method retain the delicious flavor and all of the vitamins of ripe berries. The use of artificial heat in preserving these berries causes them to lose both in flavor and vitamins. Cooking by rays of the sun prevents any loss in flavor or vitamins. The preserves are marketed in glass containers.

This plant will provide an additional outlet for strawberry crops on the Coast.

Logtown Beauties Are Beaten by Bingham Bears

The Logtown Beauties and Bingham Bears crossed bats at the Logtown ball park in which Logtown suffered its second defeat in two years. Due to the sensational playing of the Bingham Bears led by E. Price, catcher, while the master pitching of En-saw Schoonemaker and Tartaroula, third sacker spelled defeat for Logtown.

Both teams played jam-up ball. It was nip and tuck until rain stopped them in the 7th inning with the Bingham Bears leading by one tally. The final score was 5 to 4.

A pretty good elevation, but not high enough to be clear of the great Indian problem on the plain below.

BIDWELL ADAM NOW ENDORSED BY ONE WHO WAS OPPOSED TO HIM

Senator W. B. Roberts, of Bolivar County, Now Strongly Adherent and Says Why.

The following letter by Senator W. B. Roberts, who opposed Bidwell Adam in his race for lieutenant-governor four years ago, is one of the strongest endorsements of the many hundreds that the young lieutenant from the Coast has received:

July 10th, 1931.
Hon. Stanley Gaines, Boyle, Miss.

Dear Mr. Gaines:
I will not be able to be present at the address of Bidwell Adam at Cleveland on July 15th, as I expected.

Few people understand the importance of the office of Lieutenant Governor. Through his control of committee appointments of the Senate his influence over legislation, in my opinion, is greater than that of the Governor, and after long experience I do not hesitate to say that I would prefer the active assistance of the Lieutenant Governor in matters of legislation to the recommendation of the Governor.

Bidwell Adam assumed his official duties without any experience in legislative matters, armed only with a desire to be a fair presiding officer and shape his official acts in the interest of the State. This was so apparent to his political enemies (of which I was one) that, instead of embarrassing him, many of us at once shaped our course to render him all the assistance we could. He never gave us cause to regret it. He went far out of the usual political course followed in Mississippi in appointing himself as Chairman of the committee that during the last session of the legislature handled nearly all the appropriation bills—the most important of all Committees. This was done with full knowledge that I was and always had been allied with the political faction in the State opposed to him, and that the appointment would not change my political associations and opinions, and I would not be satisfied with myself as a servant of the people if I did not make public statement—not only of the facts, stated, but of the further fact that never at any time did Bidwell Adam allow his politics to influence him in his decisions as presiding officer of the Senate, notwithstanding the fact that he was called on to preside over the

THE WONDER STATE

If Mississippi means to stand The wonder state of all our land, With tribute brought from near and far, Our noble banner's brightest star.

If from her soil in grandeur rise Great cities, proud with enterprise, If every farm and wood and stream With peace and plenty thrill and team.

If every home is glad and gay, Where love and laughter hold their sway, If every woman, every man, And every child achieves who can

If God is honored as of old And hearts are big and true and bold, If Mississippi bears this breed, She still shall shine, she still shall lead.

No matter how the cynics sneer, No matter how the mockers jeer, Despite the present stench and shame Her future shall be crowned with fame.

From where the mighty river rolls To Alabama's ancient shoals, And from the Gulf to Tennessee, Two million voices shout to me:

"Rise up and smite the hoards that spoil, That fatten on the people's toil; Rise up and drive the vultures hence And free our State from such offense!"

The day of reckoning is at hand The time has come to strike and stand. Let every man that loves his State Now prove himself both good and great.

If we shall win, we must be led. God give to us a worthy head, A man of conscience, heart and brain With righteous courage to attain.

We want no chief of common clay To make decrees we must obey. The time demands the keenest mind And cleanest soul that we can find.

Candidate Gives Out Statement

I will challenge the best efforts of the next State Administration, to reduce and equalize taxation, and to raise revenue by such sane taxing methods as will not destroy the poor man or run the capital of the big man out of Mississippi; it can be done.

I will oppose borrowing money for the current running expenses of State and County Governments. I will fight for a reasonable good roads program, fixed so that bonds may be issued at intervals sufficient to secure the Federal Aid money that already stands available to the State of Mississippi, and such as will secure to us the full quota of Federal Aid money for 1932 and 1933 and following. Our road program has suffered defeat on the altar of rotten factionalism in Mississippi; this should stop at once.

I will support the necessary plan to take our State Schools and Colleges out of politics then I will do everything in my power to restore those suspended and prostrated Schools and Colleges of this State, so that they may again raise their heads with pride and prestige among their equals.

We need means of employment now, that means that great factories should be induced into Mississippi; this can be done by reasonable certainty of fair taxation, and to establish and induce facilities for cheap fuel and other power.

Agriculture and dairying must be encouraged and provided for with cheaper facilities, and the encouragement of good marketing also canneries and packing plants for the produce.

To reduce the cost and improve the efficiency of our educational system in Mississippi.

To cut out all unnecessary public employees, State Bureaus and departments and combine into one bureau some of the necessary departments.

To make a survey of the several State Institutions for the care of the State's unfortunate wards with a view of compelling the parents who are able to support their offspring, to contribute to such support.

An adequate taxation and fair regulation of Bus Line Transportation.

To repeal the "Nuisance" laws.

To work out a plan by which the State and County taxes can be paid in quarterly payments during the year, and place the due date of municipal taxes at a time different from State and County taxes so as to give the taxpayer a chance to divide his obligations and make the money to meet same.

Will strive to place a local option amendment to the State-Wide Stock law so that the grazing Counties may vote themselves from under the stock law.

Let the people have recall power for all elective officers. I am opposed to waste of money for trials, investigations and impeachments; the honest voters of Mississippi can stop this by electing honest Christian men to office.

There are numbers of issues that I could enumerate for the up-building of our country but I simply promise that if elected to the State Senate, where I know that I can use my experience and training in that line, I shall try to put the affairs of my District and of Mississippi on a business basis, and stand clear of the yawning deficits in the treasuries that now exist.

Yours faithfully for service,

RETURNED FROM CANADA GEO. R. REA IS CHIEF SPEAKER AT BAY ROTARY

Speaks of Kappa Sigma Fraternity Bi-ennial Convention—Re-Elected National Treasurer—Discussion of Economic Problems Follows by Rotarians Mauffray, Shipp, Seal and Others.

Storm-like weather, torrential rain held no fear for the majority of Bay St. Louis Rotarians who could make it Wednesday to attend the regular Wednesday luncheon-meeting at Hotel Weston, with possibly a half dozen or little more missing from the regular meeting.

Principal speaker of the day was George R. Rea, national treasurer of Kappa Sigma fraternity, recently returned from Canada, where he attended its 29th bi-ennial convocation at Bigwin Inn, Canada, on July 14.

Bigwin Inn is situated on a very beautiful island in the Lake of Bays, 150 miles north of Toronto, said Mr. Rea. For four days were gathered members of this society from every state in the United States; and the University of Toronto Chapter was host on this occasion. This hotel allowed no smoking in the dining room at any time except at the banquet held on the last night. First, a toast was drunk to the King, next a toast to the President of the United States, then smoking was permissible. The proceedings of the meeting would not interest any one other than a member, however, Mr. Rea was re-elected to serve as worthy Grand Treasurer, having already served twelve years in this office. The present governing board, known as The Supreme Executive Committee, reside respectively at Philadelphia, Chicago, San Francisco, Richmond and Bay Saint Louis.

The weather was oppressively hot in Canada, said Mr. Rea, which was the case throughout the eastern part of the United States. After all one has to travel in a foreign country to learn that the best place to hold a convention is on the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

TORONTO
Quoting Mr. Rea, he said: "Toronto is a city of unusual beauty, largely American in character with British customs. In this city is located the University of Toronto. While the school is now vacationing, a party of us desired to see Hart House, which is internationally known. Hart House is a rectangular building on the campus, constructed of stone. It was begun in 1911 and completed in 1919. Hart House contains rooms of every description, a reading room, music room, debates room, sketch room, chapel, photographic dark rooms, several gymnasiums, swimming pool, running track, billiard room, rifle range, theater and great hall (dining hall). Hart House seeks to provide for all the activities of the undergraduate's life which lie outside of the actual lecture room."

"The chapel located here is quite unique though small. Here the students return for their marriage ceremony. The beautiful glass in the windows was collected from the devastated churches and cathedrals of France, Italy and Belgium during the Great War."

"The great hall is one of the finest dining halls possessed by any university in the world. The open-timbered roof is of American oak and the floor is paved with travertine marble. The panels in one end of the room bear the arms of the royal family and of 51 universities of the British Empire. The panels at the other end bear the arms of 74 universities of the allied nations."

"The inscription which runs completely around the hall is taken from Milton's famous 'Areopagitica' written in 1644 in defense of the freedom of speech and the press."

"There are many beautiful paintings and portraits in Hart House. Many interesting stories of conquest, battle and achievement were told to us by the guide, and at the end of our visit he refused to accept a handsome tip (most wonderful!)"

"During the World War every student at this university that was physically acceptable volunteered for service. Six hundred were killed and 2500 wounded. The Soldiers' Tower and Memorial Cloister was erected at the entrance to the University and here the names of the dead are carved upon its walls."

"In Canada you hear very little about the depression, but you do hear a lot about the World War. A tax is placed upon nearly everything one buys and the income tax is a real burden, but no one ever complains."

"No articles or commodities can be shipped into Canada from the United States, or into the United States from Canada without a heavy duty being imposed. Both countries believe in protecting their industries."

UNITED STATES.
"On returning to the States one hears the constant subject of 'depression' and 'prohibition.' Doubtless these two subjects are attracting more attention than any other thing."

Dr. Murray Butler, the President of Columbia University, was recently asked if this present depression was like previous ones. He considered the current disturbance comparable to the fall of the Roman Empire, the Renaissance, or political revolutions in England and France, but different from all of them, more powerful than any of them, but like them in being epoch making. He dissented from the view that any nation can provide prosperity for itself without regard to its fellows. We have been trying to find out whether somebody could pay the cost of the Great War.

"You could just as well make somebody pay for the sunset. For fifteen years we have been like children playing, but this has gone far enough and now something must be done."

The world must plan to meet Russian communism. Labor and Capital must make a decision, the welfare of our people must be considered. We must not allow our nation to sing into chaos like empires of the past which died with their greatness.

"England today has more unemployed than we have. With them crime is on the decrease and ten of their large prisons have been closed. In the United States criminals are rapidly increasing and our federal prisons are over-crowded and we are building more."

Surely there is some cause for this and we must find the remedy. The City of Detroit has spent since last fall seventeen million dollars in dole expenses for their unemployed. Last month this City spent $800,000 supporting 30,000 families. Now the city of Detroit is facing bankruptcy.

"I know of three fabulous fees having been paid for two words of advice. (a) There was a heavy duty on a certain mineral water. The distributors were advised to 'FREEZE IT' as there was no duty on ice. They succeeded."

(b) Coca-Cola Co. wished to increase consumption and they were advised to 'BOTTLE IT.' They succeeded.

(c) The National Cash Register had for a time an undue amount of competition and they were advised to 'FIGHT THEM.' They succeeded. Possibly some can tell us a way out of the depression, maybe they can freeze it, bottle it, or fight it.

As our forefathers fought for their independence, so must our people today fight to keep our preservation, to maintain Christianity, freedom, truth and justice."

Needless to say, Mr. Rea's interesting talk of his trip and of things and conditions as he saw them, was well received and given the plaudits of his fellow Rotarians.

His reference to Russian communism and other economic conditions which this country, too, must face, brought forth illuminating remarks from Joseph O. Mauffray, Dr. C. M. Shipp, Leo W. Seal, Mr. Mauffray said the very fact that the so-called higher education was banning the existence of God from the hearts and minds of the people by their pernicious incultations, was largely responsible for this condition; it was the root of the evil. Atheism, he said, is the foe to combat.
